"A CONVERSATION WITH ALANA: ONE BOY'S CULTURAL RITE OF PASSAGE" WITH DR. CARLOS CORTÉS, NOVEMBER 3, 2016

In this one-person autobiographical play, Carlos Cortés presents his story of growing up as a young man of mixed ancestry in racially segregated, religiously divided, early post-World War II Kansas City, Missouri. The son of a Mexican Catholic immigrant father and an American-born Jewish mother, whose parents came from Austria and Ukraine, Cortés had to learn to navigate Kansas City's rigid racial, ethnic, and religious fault lines, while simultaneously dealing with the internal conflicts of his own divided family. After his play, Dr. Cortés will be available for Q&A.

Carlos Cortés is Professor Emeritus of History at the University of California, Riverside and is general editor of the forthcoming Multicultural America: A Multimedia Encyclopedia (Sage, 2012), Scholar-in-Residence with Univision Communications, and Creative/Cultural Advisor for Nickelodeon’s Peabody-award-winning children's television series, "Dora the Explorer," and its sequel, "Go, Diego, Go!," for which he received the 2009 NAACP Image Award. He also travels the country performing his one-person autobiographical play, A Conversation with Alana: One Boy's Multicultural Rite of Passage, while he co-wrote the book and lyrics for the musical, We Are Not Alone: Tomás Rivera — A Musical Narrative, which premiered in 2011.

If you are not familiar with his work, you can check him out here: https://carlosecortes.com/

FORCED MIGRATIONS, MULTIPLE BORDERS AND VIOLENCE, PART OF THE SEMINAR ON INTERNATIONAL MIGRATION, TODAY!!!

This seminar examines the complexities of the movement of people in the region of Mexico and Central America. The increase of people displaced by violence has led to the need for new political and academic response to this critical issue. Consequently, these displaced individuals have been labeled as either migrants or refugees. The purpose of this event is to examine these differences and propose alternative ways to look at these issues. The event is organized by COLEF and will feature Ailsa Winston from the University of London, who is a Geography expert and is currently researching migration in Tapachula.

The event will be held at COLEF on Friday, October 21, 2016 at 9:30 am in Aula magna Raúl Rangel, edificio 1 de El Colef en San Antonio del Mar/ Sede: Tijuana.

CUBAN LATIN JAZZ ORCHESTRA "CUBANISMO" IS PERFORMING AT UCSD, OCTOBER 27, 2016

Jesús Alemañy, founder of Latin orchestra ¡Cubanismo!, achieved fame as the brilliant 15-year-old trumpet player for the iconic Cuban son group Sierra Maestra. His all-star band performs sizzling dance tunes that recall the vintage big-band sound, traditional rumba, cha-cha, danzon, and pa’ca rhythms arranged in the descarga (jam) tradition developed by Cuban jazz players of the 1940s.

AFTER PARTY Join us for an After Party at The Loft. Beverages will be available to purchase from Zanzibar.
DANCE LESSON Arrive early at 7 pm and enjoy a free Latin dance lesson included in your ticket purchase.
Event will be held at the Price Center West Ballroom at 8 pm. Tickets available on the ArtPower website.

CALL FOR PAPERS: HISTORIC REBELS OF THE MEXICAN IMAGINATION, DUE DECEMBER 1, 2016

This special edition of the Hispanic Journal intends to study the figure of the rebel or revolutionary in the Mexican imagination, a historical character that has existed from pre-Colombian times until today. One of the fundamental premises for these essays will be the exploration of how these rebels demonstrate their transgressive potential to question structures of racial, ethnic, socioeconomic and sexual inequality that are present in Mexican history and society.
Those interested should write a proposal about 500 pages long and explain the figure in question with a critical focus. This proposal should explain the figure chosen and contain initial analysis of the topic, as well as a bibliography of the essential secondary sources of the project. The proposal can be written in Spanish or English.

Proposal are due December 1, 2016 and if accepted will appear in the May 1, 2017 issue. More information and the proposal format can be found at the Hispanic Journal website [link].

Proposals can be sent to:

Vicente Gomis-Izquierdo, editor (hispanic-journal@iup.edu)

Amy Robinson, editora invitada (arobins@bgsu.edu)

Sofía Ruiz-Alfaro, editora invitada (sofia.ruiz-alfaro@fandm.edu)

LACS GRADUATE STUDENT CONFERENCE: CALL FOR SUBMISSIONS, DUE DECEMBER 15, 2016

Conference Theme: Creative Revolution(s): Combating Hatred with Justice Across the Americas

All around us we are plagued by episodes of extreme violence and insane bigotry that are very disheartening. We bear witness to attacks on marginalized identities in different contexts and circumstances that compel us to face our demons and confront the structural injustices that fuel such attacks. For this conference we hope to develop dialogue(s) for understanding and tackling violence across the Americas from anti-Haitian sentiment in the Dominican Republic, to the disappearance of students at Ayotzinapa, to attacks on Latinx immigrants in the U.S., and anything in between.

Some questions or issues we hope to touch upon in these dialogues include but is not limited to:

- What types of logics and sentiments are at the core of modern bigotry and hatred?
- What strategies have people developed to cope with and/or combat the violence of structural inequalities?
- What are the institutions and power systems propagating discourses of exclusion and hatred?
- How do struggles against marginalization in Latin America and the Caribbean inform and support similar struggles in the United States and vice versa?
- How does a historical analysis of colonialism, imperialism, and neoliberalism assist in challenging those very processes?
- How can the arts or more creative academic endeavors contribute to advancing ideals of inclusion and decolonization?

We invite all types of presentation formats including: panels, paper presentations, workshops, plenary, think tanks, posters, performances, art exhibitions, and other formats. Please email 250-500 word abstract to lacsgradstudents@gmail.com. Please refer to our website lacsgradstudents.wordpress.com for more info. Conference Submissions Deadline: December 15, 2016

Conference will be held by:
Department of Latin American, Caribbean, and U.S. Latino Studies at University at Albany-SUNY, March 3-4, 2017

Additional info can be found here: cfp-lacs-conference-2017
